

HUSBAND | WEEK 01

Two Hearts, One Purpose

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Ephesians 5:25-33; Philippians 2:3-5; 1 Peter 3:7

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Christ does not ask you to win a position of power in your home. He calls you to love as He loved: deliberately, sacrificially, and faithfully. Read Ephesians 5 and notice that the husband is told to give himself, not to demand his own way. Ask whether your wife experiences your love as patient attention, truthful kindness, and willing service. Your individual walk with Christ should make your shared life safer and more joyful. Leadership that resembles Jesus will listen carefully, own mistakes, and protect the dignity of the person God has entrusted to your care.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What command or example stands out in your passage?

2. How does that truth challenge your expectations about unity?

3. Where have pride or assumptions shaped your reactions?

HUSBAND | WEEK 01

Two Hearts, One Purpose

4. What strength does your spouse bring that you could better honor?

5. What is one change the Holy Spirit is prompting you to make?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider biblical unity, reveal where my heart needs to change. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 02

Keeping Christ at the Center

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Joshua 24:14-15; Psalm 119:9-16

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Joshua's declaration to serve the Lord begins with personal conviction. You cannot choose faith for your wife, but you can faithfully practice it before her. A home is shaped by more than stated beliefs: it is shaped by what receives time, attention, money, and trust. Ask what your daily priorities communicate about who leads your heart. Let Scripture correct your desires before you seek to guide family decisions.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What does this passage teach about putting God first?

2. Which competing priority most often distracts you from Him?

3. What habit helps you remain rooted in Scripture?

HUSBAND | WEEK 02

Keeping Christ at the Center

4. How can you encourage faith without trying to control your spouse?

5. What one spiritual practice will you renew this week?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider a shared spiritual foundation, reveal where my heart needs to change. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 03

Speaking Life to One Another

READ THE SCRIPTURE

James 1:19-20; Proverbs 18:21

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Being quick to listen and slow to speak is a spiritual discipline, not simply a communication trick. Sometimes the desire to be understood makes us stop trying to understand. Before you explain, defend, or correct, consider whether your wife knows you have heard her accurately. A soft response does not require avoiding hard truths; it requires delivering them without contempt or haste. Let God govern your first reaction.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. Which instruction about words or listening is most needed in your life?

2. When do you become defensive or stop listening?

3. How can you express a concern truthfully and gently?

HUSBAND | WEEK 03

Speaking Life to One Another

4. What helpful word have you neglected to say?

5. How can you make space for a better conversation this week?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider communication shaped by grace, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 04

Choosing Love Every Day

READ THE SCRIPTURE

1 Corinthians 13:4-8; John 15:12-13

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Love in Scripture is not measured only by strong affection. Paul describes love through patience, kindness, humility, and perseverance. Notice which phrase challenges you most. A husband may provide much and still neglect tenderness; he may work hard yet withhold attention. Christ demonstrates love that moves toward the needs of others. Ask what act of care would mean the most to your wife, rather than assuming your own preferred expression is sufficient.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. Which description of love most challenges you?

2. How do your actions differ from what you say you value?

3. How does Christ's love shape your understanding of sacrifice?

HUSBAND | WEEK 04

Choosing Love Every Day

4. What does your spouse experience as genuine care?

5. What one loving act will you offer without expecting repayment?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider love beyond feelings, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 05

Grace Greater Than Our Mistakes

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Ephesians 4:31-32; Matthew 18:21-22

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

God's call to forgive begins by reminding us that He has shown us mercy in Christ. Yet a sincere apology requires more than "I'm sorry you felt hurt." It names the wrong, takes responsibility, and seeks to repair its effects. Consider a pattern you may need to confess, whether impatience, neglect, or defensiveness. Repentance includes changed behavior. Do not use forgiveness language to rush your wife past pain or excuse repeated harm.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. How does God's mercy change how you approach a wrong?

2. Where might you need to admit fault without excuses?

3. What difference is there between forgiveness and restored trust?

HUSBAND | WEEK 05

Grace Greater Than Our Mistakes

4. What repair or boundary might be needed for healing?

5. What step toward honesty and peace can you take?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider forgiveness and reconciliation, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 06

When We Don't See Eye to Eye

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Philippians 2:3-5; Proverbs 15:18

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Humility does not mean having no conviction. It means valuing another person enough to examine your assumptions and refuse selfish ambition. When disagreement rises, your first task is not to overcome your wife's perspective but to understand it. Ask which issue is truly Biblical, which is a matter of preference, and which is influenced by fear or fatigue. A calm response can make space for wisdom.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What does humility look like when you strongly disagree?

2. What fears or preferences may be shaping your position?

3. What part of your spouse's view deserves understanding?

HUSBAND | WEEK 06

When We Don't See Eye to Eye

4. How can you refuse sarcasm, anger, or withdrawal?

5. What wise next step could you suggest without demanding it?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider disagreement without division, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

MY PERSONAL PRAYER / NOTES

HUSBAND | WEEK 07

Learning to Pray as One

READ THE SCRIPTURE

1 Timothy 2:1-4; Philippians 4:6-7

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Prayer invites you to carry concerns to God instead of carrying them alone or placing their full weight on your spouse. Intercession is also a way to love your wife: pray for her wisdom, strength, joys, and burdens, not only for changes you wish she would make. Your prayers should deepen compassion, not become indirect criticism. Begin with thanksgiving before moving to requests.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What does this passage reveal about prayer and dependence on God?

2. What burden have you been carrying privately?

3. How might you pray for your spouse's good rather than your preferences?

HUSBAND | WEEK 07

Learning to Pray as One

4. What makes praying together difficult or encouraging?

5. What simple prayer habit can you begin?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider growing spiritual intimacy, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 08

Trusting God Through Every Season

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Proverbs 3:5-6; Psalm 46:1-3

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Trusting God with all your heart does not mean you will always know what to do next. It means acknowledging Him rather than relying only on your own interpretation of events. Difficult seasons may tempt a husband to withdraw, control, or act as if he must solve every problem. God invites you to seek wisdom, admit limitations, and remain present with your wife while you wait.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What promise in your passage offers hope in difficulty?

2. How do you usually respond to uncertainty?

3. What worry do you need to entrust to God?

HUSBAND | WEEK 08

Trusting God Through Every Season

4. How can you support your spouse without trying to fix everything?

5. What faithful step is possible even without full answers?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider faith in hardship and uncertainty, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

HUSBAND | WEEK 09

Serving Instead of Being Served

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Mark 10:42-45; John 13:12-17

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Jesus washed His disciples' feet and taught that greatness looks like service. Your role in marriage never makes ordinary acts of help beneath you. Notice the responsibilities your wife carries, especially the quiet ones no one sees. Ask how you might relieve a burden without needing praise or recognition. Servanthood does not erase healthy limits; it cultivates willing generosity.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. How did Jesus or the early church demonstrate service?

2. What unseen work of your spouse do you overlook?

3. When are you tempted to keep score?

HUSBAND | WEEK 09

Serving Instead of Being Served

4. What does humble service look like with healthy boundaries?

5. What burden can you help carry this week?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider humility in everyday marriage, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

MY PERSONAL PRAYER / NOTES

HUSBAND | WEEK 10

Faithfulness in the Little Things

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Luke 16:10; Proverbs 20:6-7

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Jesus connects faithfulness in little things with trustworthiness in larger ones. Marriage confidence grows through kept promises, truthful conversation, responsible choices, and dependable care. Think of seemingly small moments when you might exaggerate, conceal, forget, or overpromise. Integrity means letting your wife know she can trust both your words and your actions. Faithfulness is a pattern formed over time.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What does Scripture connect with trustworthiness?

2. What small promise or habit needs your attention?

3. Where do honesty and consistency require courage?

HUSBAND | WEEK 10

Faithfulness in the Little Things

4. How can you own a failure without becoming defensive?

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider trust, integrity, and commitment, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

MY PERSONAL PRAYER / NOTES

HUSBAND | WEEK 11

Growing Closer Through the Years

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Ecclesiastes 9:9; Proverbs 17:17

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Ecclesiastes encourages rejoicing in the shared life God grants. Years of work, responsibilities, and changes can turn marriage into a schedule of tasks instead of a friendship to be enjoyed. Friendship requires curiosity: do you still ask about your wife's hopes, interests, and daily experiences? Remember what first drew you together and consider what new joys might be possible now. Gratitude sees your spouse as a gift, not an obligation.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. How does the passage invite gratitude or delight?

2. What shared memory brings you joy?

3. What new strength do you admire in your spouse?

HUSBAND | WEEK 11

Growing Closer Through the Years

4. Where has routine crowded out companionship?

5. How can you make time for friendship this week?

WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

MY PRAYER

Father, thank You for Your Word and for the gift of my marriage. As I consider friendship, gratitude, and joy, reveal where my heart needs to change. Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.

MY PERSONAL PRAYER / NOTES

HUSBAND | WEEK 12

Leaving a Godly Marriage Legacy

READ THE SCRIPTURE

Psalm 78:4-7; Deuteronomy 6:5-9

PERSONAL DEVOTIONAL

Psalm 78 calls God's people to tell the next generation what the Lord has done. A marriage leaves a legacy not only through children but through family, neighbors, church, and anyone who sees its example. Ask what people learn about Jesus when they watch how you treat your wife. Your legacy is not built by public religious language alone; it is built through humble faithfulness at home.

REFLECT AND RESPOND

1. What does the passage teach about passing on faith?

2. What do your daily choices communicate about Jesus?

3. Who might be encouraged by your marriage?

HUSBAND | WEEK 12

Leaving a Godly Marriage Legacy

Give me humility to admit my failures, courage to obey Your truth, and tenderness toward my spouse. Help me contribute to peace and faithful love today. Keep our eyes on Jesus, our Savior and example. In His name, amen.
